It is with great pleasure and confidence that I write this letter for Victoria C. Liu. Victoria was a student in my English Language Development Class at the University of California, Irvine in 2010. I have also had the pleasure of being her student teaching supervisor during this time.

Victoria was a good student, keen, enthusiastic and always well prepared. One aspect of her academic work consisted of weekly journals and I found her reflections thoughtful and disciplined. Victoria's work here reflected not only theory but also an application of that theory to her experiences as teacher and learner. Victoria was able to successfully analyze and utilize the material presented to her.

Victoria is a dedicated and confident professional and an excellent classroom teacher. This was demonstrated during her teaching where she showcased her knowledge and skill in applying theory and practice by employing strategies that motivated and sustained her students' interests and advanced their development while delivering crucial classroom content. Victoria designed and delivered a range of comprehensive and engaging lessons that skillfully meet State Content Standards across subject areas and she employed exceptional behavior management skills and techniques. Victoria promoted ongoing inquiry and rigor; she is a reflective teacher who is armed with a solid set of academic skills and a clear command of teaching pedagogy.

Victoria has been involved in a comprehensive teaching program that includes a very rigorous series of courses that are designed to meet the Californian Standards for the Teaching Profession and this will prepare her to meet the high standards expected of those currently entering the Teaching Profession in the US. It is without hesitation that I recommend Victoria Liu she is smart, dynamic and well prepared to teach and make a valuable contribution to education.

If you require additional information about Victoria Liu please feel free to contact me.

Sincerely,
